

Northwest Semitic Dictionary

The Northwest Semitic languages include Ugaritic, Phoenician, Hebrew, Aramaic, and their related dialects. This dictionary provides comprehensive lexical coverage of epigraphic sources dating from the second millennium BCE through the Hellenistic period.

Key features:

- Extensive cross-referencing across dialects
- Etymology from Proto-Semitic roots
- Cuneiform and alphabetic script attestations
- Bibliography of primary sources and modern scholarship

This reference work is essential for students of ancient Near Eastern languages, biblical scholars, and comparative linguists who require a reliable resource for lexical analysis.
